Dedication

Sometimes . . .
not often enough.
we reflect upon the good things,
and those thoughts always center around those we love.
And we think about those people who mean so much to us, and we count the times we have forgotten to say . . .
Thank-you.
And just how much we love you.
So we, the seniors of 1980, would like to dedicate this annual to our families, who have helped us through the bad times, and have seen us through the good. Again we say, thank-you.

Prophesy

On this bright, sunshiny, May morning in the year 2000, I Scott Clifford am planning a big trip to see all my graduating classmates from Hayes Center High School. In order to find out where everybody is living, I called the "Where Everybody Lives" headquarters in Bettendorf, Iowa. After receiving the information I needed, I got this strange suspicion that the secretary I was talking to was Christy Yonkers. So I asked if it was her, and sure enough, it was! I ran up quite a phone bill talking to her, and I found out that she was the head secretary over all the other secretaries in all the other offices of "Where Everybody Lives" in America!

I decided to just go down my list of names and visit my friends in that order. So, the first on my list is: Bob Yonkers. I didn't get a definite address of where Bob was, but Christy thought he was either at Imperial or Alabama somewhere. I decided to give Imperial a first try since it IS a fraction smaller! I found Bob, sitting in his trailer house with his stereo full blast and drinking a beer. I asked him what he'd been doing lately, and he said, "Repairing doorknobs — when I'm not loafing!!" I kinda had a feeling thats what he was probably doing.

Now I started on my way towards Maywood, Nebraska to find Peggy Korell. I was just driving along when I saw Mike Messersmith's mailbox. I figured Peggy and him were married by now, so I stopped in. When Peggy came to the door, she really looked like she was having a heck of a time. She said that her 5 kids were driving her up the wall, plus she had made a mistake in her books and couldn't find it, so she was going to have to call Mr. Walters. I guess Mike's and her pig (or Sow) operation was quite a success. But I could tell I caught Peggy at a bad time, so we said good-bye and I was now on my way to find Greg Burkert.

It said on my list that Greg was in Denver with some kind of business on Colfax Avenue. It didn't take long for me to find it. There was a huge sign outside a door that read, "DR. J's MASSAGE PALOUR". I entered — knowing that I would find Greg where the "massagers" were. I inquired at the front desk and was taken to a back room. Sure enough-there was Greg surrounded by 15 beautiful girls-doing all sorts of things for him. (How lucky can you get!!!) Greg told me he had had this business for 12 years now, and he said you couldn't believe all the money it brought in. Plus it had many "FRINGE BENEFITS!" It took a while for me to pull myself away from there, but when I finally succeeded, I grabbed a flight on a plane to Oklahoma City. There Colt Barelman was in the National Rodeo Finals.

While wandering around the chutes looking for Colt, I heard his name being announced for the bullriding event. I watched him from where I was and WOW — was I impressed!! Colt stayed on that bull as if someone had poured superglue on it. (Maybe thats how he did it!!!) Colt won the event, but since I had to get to South Dakota before night, I left, leaving a note for Colt to call me sometime.

Up in South Dakota, I looked up Kathy Brush in Rapid City. She was working in MacDonald's — where I went to eat. She told me she was taking over the management sometime next month. I asked her what she did when she wasn't working, and she said she usually rode around with Kenneth or Wendell — whoever had gas in their vehicle at the time. I left to go try to find Wendell DeGarmo.

I stopped at a red light and happened to glance out my window, and there he was — right in the next lane on his new motorcycle. We talked all the way down the street, but he said he had to turn off at the next corner so he could go back home to get his car. (His motorcycle was running low on gas.) So — off he went, and there I was lost in Rapid City!

I finally got directions and started on my way to Mississippi. I'm sure you can all guess who I was going to see down there. Yes — Theresa Anderjaksa. I eventually found her way down by the mouth of the Mississippi River. She told me she had quite a problem. It seemed she was quite concern with all the noise pollution going on. She said that it was causing the soil around the river to erode away, causing the mouth to enlarge more and more every year!! She did have a solution, but I didn't see HOW SHE — THERESA ANDERJASKA would ever get it to work. She explained that if people would shut up if they didn't have anything important to say, the noise pollution would be cut nearly 1/3 percent!!! So SHE the same - Theresa Anderjaska that we all knew in high school — was going to try to get people to stop talking!!! I wished her good luck, and left. (I didn't want to add to her problem.)

I had only 4 more people on my list, and saw I had to travel back up north to Chicago, Ill. to meet Jeanne Broz. I had to double check the address when I got there, but it was right! Jeanne was working at the Oscar Mayer hot dog factory! In fact, I found her sitting behind the President's chair. She served me a "hog dog hors d'oeuvre" while we talked. She told me that her business was a booming success — selling more frankurters now than ever before. She also said that she had gone to New York City just the week-end before to be interviewed for a job using her voice. She explained that "Gonzo" from the Muppet Show was in need of a new voice. Jeanne said she got the job and was very excited to get started with it. It looked like Jeanne had quite a variety of interests. I had to leave her though, for there was some kind of explosion down in the factory!

Next, I went back to Hayes Center where I ran into Don Scott. When I asked him what he was doing he just answered — in his unique manner, :Nothing." But later I found out that he had attained his ultimate goal of becoming Deputy-Sheriff to Tracy Neverve. It looks like all those years of assisting Tracy in his younger days finally paid off.

After leaving Don, I went down to Texas to look up Jon Bodeman. I heard he had his own big ranch. I entered one place that had a sign that read "BIG BAD JON'S FROG RANCH". I had no idea Jon raised frogs! But sure enough I found him down by a pond feeding some of his Toady-Woadys. I asked Jon how he got interested in doing this and he said that he felt he always did have a strong communication with frogs. He said he actually could understand some of them and that he had grown quite fond of some of them.

I stayed with Jon that night and while we were watching the news, a special report came on and said that there was a big riot out in Hollywood. It was women rioting against the men, and it was Carole Nickerson who started it all. Well, I packed my bag and flew out to Hollywood. When I got there, I found Carole in JAIL. She told me the whole story — she hadn't changed at all since high school. It seemed what started it all, was a discussion about who had more superiority-men or women. As you can can imagiene-Carole got pretty wound up and really cut loose, causing the mmales to also let out their hot air. Well, I bailed Carole out, and she took me back to her mansion. She told me she was doing quite well in the "entertaining field".

Well, I finally made it back to my home in Unoville, Kentucky. But it looked a lot different from when I left it. See, I own the town, and before I left on my trip, I had just finished building a STATUE OF LIBERTY look-a-like out of Mountain Dew cans, (of which I drank all the mountain dew out of!! But I found out that a very strong wind come up when I was gone, knocking over all the cans and had made my city a total junk hole. Everybody had deserted the place — it was like a ghost town!! Well, I found me a chair to sit down on and also a Twinkie to munch on. I sat there, planning my new city and my next trip to visit my classmates in 2020! I do make a point to keep in touch with good friends!!!

The Junior class had a fantastic year. It started off with planning and building the winning Homecoming float entitled Heaven Knows: Cards Will Win. In October, we began magazine sales and thanks to a combined effort raised over $4,000 in total sales. Then we could plan our Prom which went off without a hitch.

The Juniors worked the whole day before Prom on decorations (left). This was the second year in a row the Class of 1981 won 1st prize with their Homecoming float (center left). Brian and Kristy take a break from designing the entrance at Prom (below).

Coaches Comments

Although the Cardinals ended their season with a 0 and 8 record, there still was some bright spots. With only two Seniors on the team, we had to relie on underclassmen to come along and perform. The inexperienced team came along admirably and gave many of the top teams close ball games. The experience gained through the year will be a great asset for the team to build on. With a lot of hard work and desire the Cardinals should come up with a successful season next year.

TEAM SONG

In 1979 we took a little trip along with Coach Clint and the mighty big ten.
Took a couple basketballs and dirty tennis shoes,
and met up with our opponents for a victory not to loose.

Well, we shot for 2 and the score began a risin', shot once more and it put us in the lead.
Shot those balls and they began a runnin'
down the b. ball court and out the door.

We used our 1-2-1-1 press,
it was working mighty good,
We could win this gosh darn b. ball game,
and dang we knew we would!
The opponent used their last time-out
we really had them shook.
We would add another win to our winning record book!

The band was SWEET FREEDOM out of Kansas.

Peggy, Theresa, Marlene, and Carole take a break by the fountain.

The waterfall was the center of attraction.

The band played everything from hard rock to country. Slow dances and fast dances. It took the Juniors a full day to put up the decorations, and they came down in a about a half hour. After the dance, there was a movie — Family Plot. The months before the prom seemed to stretch endlessly and it was all over so soon.
